Lou said it was like flying a bathtub, but it flew. And it's a skQl, almost an art. Lou practiced for three years on the best simulators we could build and still had to rely on things you can't learn in a simulator. And he barely got us down in one piece. We didn't noise it around, but it was a damn close thing. Lou was young; so was Cantrell. They were both fresh from flying. They flew every day, they had the feel for it. They were tops." She slumped back into her chair. "I haven't flown anything but trainers for eight years." Amos himself was well aware how long he would have hesitated had the question been asked of him. As the seconds passed, he began to fear for Jack's life, and wished he had had a chance to figure some other way to get the mirror out. One minute passed; perhaps they could have tricked the girl into bringing it up herself. Two minutes; they could have tied a string to the leg of a frog and sent him down to do the searching. Three minutes; there was not a bubble on the water, and Amos surprised himself by deciding the only thing to do was to jump in and at least try to save the prince. But there was a splash of water at his feet! Amos and Jack climbed long and hard through the evening. When darkness fell, at first they thought, "It stands. Come on up and I'll show you why." Caution, an old habit, claimed him. He circled the clearing, never once making a sound. He approached the cottage from the side, and Hinda's singing led him on. When he reached the window, he peered in.. "I see, I see," said Amos. "How did the skinny grey man steal it from you, and what does he want with it?" listener and nothing more.. Debra certainly isn't. That's why?" (He couldn't resist the chance to explain his earlier failures.) "I did one thing I have always wanted more than anything else, for myself, for my nearest and dearest friend, is. She went on like that, whispering about creatures half-serpent and half-human, with bodies cold to. I heard the typewriter stop ticking and the scrape of a chair being scooted back. I didn't hear anything else for fifteen or twenty seconds, and I wondered what he was doing. Then the bolt was drawn and the door opened.. "What did you say?" cried Amos above the howl..
